WOMEN ON SITE

APRIL 2024 - MARCH 2025

WHO ARE WE & WHAT DO WE DO?

Women on Site is a registered nonprofit organization that hosts networking and social events for women and non-binary people in the construction, manufacturing, and building science industries.

While there are efforts by the government, businesses, unions, and educational institutions to recruit more women into our industries, the same cannot be said for the efforts to keep us once we're in. Few resources or organizations offer opportunities to build relationships with people who have had similar experiences, challenges, and that familiar feeling of being the "only one" on site.

ISOLATION IS ONE MAIN REASON THAT 44% OF WOMEN WORKING IN CONSTRUCTION HAVE SERIOUSLY CONSIDERED LEAVING THEIR JOBS.

INSTITUTE FOR WOMEN'S POLICY RESEARCH

So, while recruitment is important, WOS is tackling the labour shortage issue we're facing through a different perspective: retention. And we're achieving this through community and connection.

Women on Site is the only organization run by women on site, for women on site in Canada.

OUR TEAM

We are four women working in the construction industry, different job titles, different journeys to how we got on site, but the same need for a community. Our job titles are different but our lived experiences are very similar, and that's what makes WOS so special.

OUR...

MISSION

To create a welcoming community for women and non-binary people in construction, manufacturing, and building sciences.

We curate experiences to connect outside of work, through which we address our two main goals: reduce the loneliness experienced by underrepresentation and ensure the retention of underrepresented people who have, against all odds, committed themselves to careers in these industries.

...AND

VISION

To build a world (pun intended!) where all people feel welcome in construction, manufacturing, and building sciences.

Through our events and meetups, we aim to create inclusive spaces that encourage dialogue, spark connection, and challenge perspectives. We aspire to be a catalyst for positive change, promoting diversity, and nurturing the next generation of Women on Site.
